College to play EL1 for first time

ELIZABETH COLLEGE will test themselves against the island's best next season as they prepare to play in Evening League Division One for the first time.

Although they will not compete for the full season, they will take on all four senior clubs once.

They will receive a projected points total for a reflected position in the league table.

College will also play a full part in an expanded four-team, six-game Weekend Championship and thus, are eligible to win that competition outright.

Speaking after the development had been confirmed at a rather low-key annual general meeting, Guernsey Cricket Board chief executive Mark Latter said he was pleased with the strengthening link between it and the college.

'A strong Elizabeth College is key to Guernsey cricket being strong,' he said.

doing a fantastic job there at the college for some time now and it is great that they will play the Division One Evening League sides next season.

'Plus, they will play fully in both rounds of the Weekend Championship as opposed to the one round they did in 2017, so it is looking good.'

With schedule restrictions not as tight as they were during 2017, it means that the Weekend Championship will be run completely independently to the CI League, as opposed to having overlapping fixtures.

It will mean more cricket for all of the local sides during the new campaign.

This will get under way in April, although the overriding Evening League structure will be the same as last summer.
