

Proud day for cadet Jonty

17-year-old cadet Jonty Inderwick had a chance to meet the new Lt-Governor during a wreath-laying ceremony at the Smith Street War Memorial. (13948200)

FOR a hopeful Royal Navy pilot officer, the installation was a chance to meet the new Lt-Governor.

Jonty Inderwick, 17, handed a wreath to Vice-Admiral Corder when they went to the Island War Memorial at the top of Smith Street.

He also, along with the other Lt-Governor's cadets, welcomed guests into St James for the Installation.

The warrant cadet for the Elizabeth College CCF said: 'I feel very proud'.

The Year 13 student said he was selected for the role.

He has passed most of his tests and now needs to complete a pilot medical.

If successful, he will study for a year in Dartmouth before then spending three to four years learning to fly.
