RECOMMENDATIONS FOR APPLICANTS

- Applications are accepted from all musicians of a suitable standard. Repertoire from any genre, style or tradition is accepted.
- A complete piece/movement is expected (songs may be reduced if appropriate (number of verses etc).
- Auditions will be judged on accuracy of performance and interpretative skill. It is expected that applicants will present work that is thoroughly prepared and demonstrates their best standards of performance. Repertoire which is of excessive difficulty may adversely affect performances.
- Those successfully passing the first round will be asked to interview/audition in front of a panel .

An accompanist can be contacted through the College if necessary. Please indicate this on your form and include copy of the accompaniment with this application.

Gibson Fleming Music Y12 Scholarships & Bursaries

Gibson Fleming Trust Choral and Instrumental Scholarships

Availability of Awards

Elizabeth College offers a number of Gibson Fleming Music Scholarships. Talented and accomplished musicians are invited to apply to audition for these awards. The following awards are available in September 2026:

Gibson Fleming Sixth Form Music Scholars

Year 12

- Choral Scholarship
- Instrumental Scholarship

Duration and Value of Awards

Awards are granted on an annual basis, however, it is expected that Scholars will hold their scholarship until eligible to apply for the next level of award or until they leave College. The continued awards are subject to each musician's active involvement in the musical life of the College.

Gibson Fleming Music Scholars (all years)

The value of awards offered to Music Scholars is £100pa. There is some provision for moderate supplementary funds to be added at the discretion of the Gibson Fleming Trust on the recommendation of the panel should particular opportunities arise for scholars to further expand their musical experiences.

The role of GF Music Scholars

Each Scholar is expected to be an active participant within the Music Department, usually via participation in the extra-curricular programme. Scholars are often active in community groups and are likely to represent the College in public performances. Scholars are expected to be available to offer solo or ensemble events at particular College events annually.

Gibson Fleming Music Bursaries

Under a scheme introduced in 2019, musicians are invited to apply for means tested Gibson Fleming Music Bursaries. These will be awarded upon demonstration of suitable musical skill or potential and are designed to support students wishing to pursue musical studies that may create particular financial stress for their families. Scholars are not exempt from this scheme and may apply for a discretionary bursary to supplement their scholarship.
